

AD

TRAVEL

The 20 Best New Design Hotels Opening Around World in 2023

From Mexico to Morocco, these are the best-designed new hotels we can't wait to check into

By Laura Htzkowitz, Katherine McLaughlin, and Nick Muff
April 7, 2023

Photo: Oyster Collection

WATCH

All around the world, 2023 is going to be a big year for hotel openings. Major cities like Paris, London, and Rome are getting evermore luxurious hotels that will cater to savvy travelers, while eco-chic openings will reach even the most remote places in the world—from Kenya and Morocco to the fjords of Norway. From a luxe Capri hotel designed by an AD100 designer to an ambitious project that will transform one of London's most important historic landmarks into a veritable design destination, these are the hotels we can't wait to check into.

Photo: Vincent Lottin

1/20

Le Grand Mazarin (Paris)

Ask any Parisian whose tourists must stay to see the best of the city and they're almost always going to say the Marais. And it's because this neighborhood features old-world charm, narrow cobblestone streets, hidden courtyards, and trendy boutiques. Starting this summer, the stunningly Le Grand Mazarin can be added to the list of reasons to go. Designed by AD100 talent Martin Brudnizki, the hotel features 50 rooms and 11 suites that are cocooned in natural light, bold colors, and high craftsmanship. Opening in June 2023 (grandmazarin.com) Elevate

Photo: Courtesy of Angama

2/20

Angama Amboseli (Kenya)

The team behind cult-favorite safari lodge Angama Mara is set to open a new lodge in Kimana Sanctuary, southeast of the Maasai Mara, which was the first community conservancy established in Kenya. It's being designed by the same team of designers who imbued Angama Mara with its contemporary African style. There will be ten luxurious tented suites with Fermob rocking chairs on private decks offering views of Mount Kilimanjaro, an indoor-outdoor dining area with a fireplace for sundowners, and an infinity pool with a drinking trough for visiting elephants. Opening November 2021 angama.com

Photo: Courtesy of Six Senses Rome

3/20

Six Senses Rome (Italy)

One of Rome's most highly anticipated openings is the first Italian hotel by wellness-focused brand Six Senses. The hotel will breathe new life into the 18th-century Palazzo Salviati Cesi Mellini just off the bustling Via del Corso, with a modern, breezy design by Milan-based architect Patricia Urquiola. The showpiece will be the massive spa inspired by ancient Roman baths, but the plant-filled rooftop bar will no doubt become a hotspot for both locals and visitors to the Eternal City. Opening spring 2021 sixsenses.com, Booking.com

